

Method Signature in Java

method signature is a combination of the method's name and its parameter list.

1. Method Name: The name of the method.
2. Parameter List: The number, type, and order of the parameters.

Note: The return type, access modifiers (public, private, etc.), static keyword, and throws clause are not part of the method signature.